A Six Room Cottage

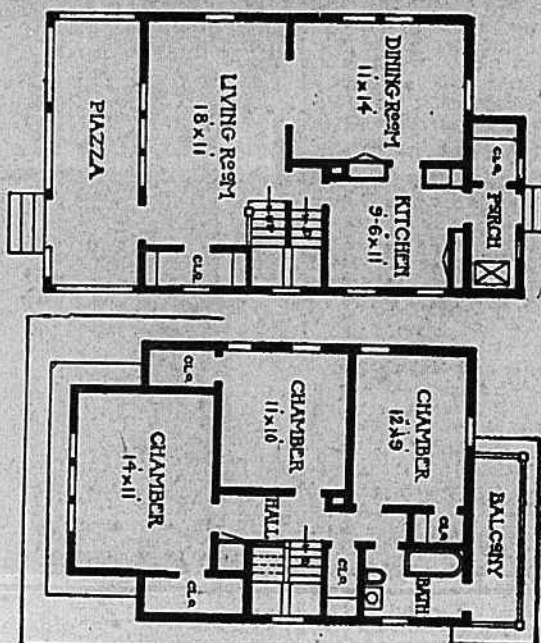

Designed by Chas. S. Sedgwick, Architect.

Here is an economical cottage. It is 22 feet in width by 36 feet in depth including the front piazza that comes under the main roof. It is designed to be built of frame construction, the lower portion covered with wide drop siding up to the first story window sills and above that the walls covered with narrow siding. It is warmly built and simply finished in pine with birch floors throughout and estimated to build for $2,200 to $2,600 exclusive of heating and plumbing. There is a good basement under the house.

The main living room in front is 18 feet in length by 11 feet wide with a liberal sized closet at the left end for coats. The stairway leads up from the end of the living room with two platforms and the basement stairs extend down underneath the same with a grade entrance. The dining room is 11 by 14 feet with china closet opening out. The kitchen is provided with ample cupboards and a good size rear porch entry with space for refrigerator and large closet at the left, convenient for use of the kitchen.

The second story has three good chambers, each provided with an ample clothes closet and at the rear over the kitchen is located the bath room with outside opening onto a rear balcony, making a good place for washing, etc. A stairway can be arranged to attic space over the main stairs, affording convenient storage space if desired. The suggestion for painting is a light cream color for the upper part of the house and the lower sections, casings, cornices, etc., to be painted white and the roof shingles stained red.

HEALTH INSURANCE MOVEMENT IS BEGUN IN NEW YORK STATE

atures of Various States
e Asked to Enact Laws or Such Insurance.

YORK, Nov. 15.—The American Association for Labor Legislation public today the text of a bill designed to establish in this state a system of health insurance. The bill will be introduced in the legislature at the coming session. It is intended to have it passed also in the legislature at the earliest opportunity. The bill has been after long study by the insurance committee of the association and its proposals follow the lines of the British and American systems, with suitable adaptations to American conditions. The general purpose of the measure is to provide, at the joint expense of the worker, the employer and the state for health insurance for the worker, and for medical care for himself and his family. As drafted, the bill applies to all those engaged in manual labor and to all others earning less than $100 a month. It would provide every insured worker with medical care including nursing attendance, hospital care, medical and surgical supplies, and a cash benefit equal to two-thirds of the wages for a maximum of twenty-six weeks in a year; to the wife if she is also insured at childbirth, and if she is also insured a cash benefit for eight weeks; and to the entire family it grants medical care and a funeral benefit on the death of the insured wage earner.

Fund Raising. Employers and their employees, in most cases, would contribute equally and the state would add one-fourth to this sum. The actual amount of the contributions is to be calculated with reference to wages and the cost of benefits. It is claimed that these benefits can be bought by the workers for the amount many of them now spend on funeral benefit alone.

The insurance would be carried by mutual organizations of employers and employees organized according to localities and industries and supervised by the state social insurance commission created by the act. Employers and employees would have an equal voice in the administration and in the adjustment of the contributions. Upon specified conditions the existing benefit societies maintained by employers or workmen may be approved for the purposes of the act.

Experts Frame Bill. The social insurance committee which has formulated the bill includes a number of well-known authorities on social conditions, health and insurance, including Dr. Edward T. Devine, director of the New York School of Philanthropy; Dr. S. S. Goldwater, commissioner of the department of health, city of New York; Dr. I. M. Rubinow, author of social insurance; Dr. Henry R. Seager, professor of economics at Columbia; Dr. Alexander Lambert of of Boston, secretary American Statistical Association; Dr. Henry J. Harris, library of Congress, Washington; Miss Lillian D. Wald, of the Nurses' Settlement; Miles M. Dawson, secretary; Dr. John B. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation, and others.

The committee claims that if the system is adopted it will improve the workmen's health and consequently his efficiency and that the sanitation of factories will receive greater attention.

The Tunkhannock viaduct.

The half-mile long Tunkhannock viaduct, costing $12,000,000 and cutting twenty minutes of the running time on the Lackawanna railroad between New York and Buffalo, has just been opened to traffic. "The Ninth Wonder of the World" is what the engineers of the road call this viaduct, which is 2,375 feet long, 240 feet high and composed of ten 190-foot and two 100-foot spans. It is the last link of the forty-mile cut-off between Clark's Summit and Halletts, Pa., near Scranton.

BATTLER YEARNS FOR OLD HONORS

Batling Nelson.

Bat Nelson isn't the same old durable Dane he used to be; twenty years of the wear and tear he's been going through would batter down the most stanch of constitutions. But he still talks earnestly about regaining the championship. He wants to fight Freddy Welsh and believes in his heart that in forty-five rounds he can beat the Briton.

NO DECISION IS REACHED IN BIG CASE

And There is Yet No Agreement on Division of the Adolphus Armstrong Estate.

GRAFTON, Nov. 15.—The representatives of the hundred odd claimants to shares in the estate of the late Adolphus Armstrong gathered here recently in another effort to secure some sort of settlement but the work could not be completed and was taken up today. A special session of the circuit court was convened for the purpose of considering the case and another session will probably be necessary before the case can be brought to any sort of settlement.

A number of the claimants who appeared in court this week claimed that they represented twenty-nine thirtyths of the heirs of the estate and asked that a consent decree be given by the court. However, one or two of the claimants would not join in the petition for the decree, so it was impossible for the court to reach any conclusion in the case.

Another point raised in court was in regard to service upon several of the alleged heirs and on this point counsel argued at considerable length. This matter was again taken up today and it is being threshed out before the session ends this afternoon. It is practically certain that arrangements will be made for holding another special session of court in the near future to hear arguments on various points and to make a final effort to secure a partition of the half-million dollar estate.

The case has been fought long and stubbornly through the local courts and new heirs have bobbed up with disconcerting frequency during the last few years and have served to change conditions about considerably but it seems likely that a fairly sound basis for settlement has now been reached here. The case has cost many thousands of dollars but is a sufficiently rich plum to be worth the price evidently.

JOINT MEETING

Of Committees Interested in Oil and Gas Production May Be Held Soon.

Secretary John Mullen, of the Oil and Gas Association of West Virginia, is now making an effort to arrange a convenient date for a joint meeting of the committees appointed by the association at its meeting at Parkersburg in September and those of the National Petroleum Association to be held in Pittsburgh soon.

November 23 has been fixed as a tentative date and Secretary Mullen has written to the members of the committees of both organizations to ascertain if that time will be convenient. Replies to the communications he has sent out have not yet been received so that it is not definite that the meeting can be arranged for that date.

The National Petroleum Association is composed of independent refiners of the country and it will be remembered that a movement is already under way looking to the working out of a plan whereby the association and the producers of this state can be of mutual benefit to each other.

PHILIPPI TERM

Of the United States District Court Will Probably End Coming Wednesday.

PARKERSBURG, Nov. 15.—Deputy Marshal C. P. Cook who came in from Philippi to make an arrest here, states that the term of United States court now in progress at the Barbour county capital, will probably come to an end next Wednesday. Both juries have been discharged and all that remains is to hear some motions. There was but one jury trial during the term, that of John Hamilton, of Elkins, who refused to pay a picture show license, and who was acquitted after a brief trial.

Mohammed Assan pleaded guilty to white slavery and got a year in the penitentiary. The white slave case of Dr. Young, colored, was continued until next term. Gilbert Huggins, of Terra Alta, who tried to get paid as witness twice at the last Wheeling term, was given a jail sentence. There were no cases from Wood county at this term.
